Cone Mills Announces Personnel Shifts

Cone Mills has announced the appointment of James Schultz to the San Francisco offices of Cone Mills Inc. Mr. Schultz formerly served as Cone's representative to the wholesale and cutting-up trades in Chicago.

Robert W. Falk, who has temporarily been in charge of both the San Francisco and Los Angeles offices, will now assume responsibility for the Los Angeles office, assisted by Herbert Slater and Ronald Current. Mr. Current graduated from the University of North Carolina prior to joining Cone in July 1955.

Mr. Gregg Thompson will move to Chicago to succeed Mr. Schultz. Mr. Thompson, a veteran of the paratrooper service during World War II, attended Davidson College, where he majored in business administration.

Cone Mills also announces the appointment of George Clark to Cone's Philadelphia office, as assistant to James Congdon. Mr. Clark, a Naval Air Corps veteran, formerly served in the merchandising department of Cone's New York Office.

Young Matrons To Meet Jan. 10

Young Matrons Club will hold a monthly luncheon meeting Wednesday morning, January 10 at 11 o'clock at Proximity YMCA.

A bingo party is being planned, and each member is asked to bring a wrapped "white elephant" gift.

Reservations should be made by calling 9621 before noon on Tuesday, January 17.

Raleigh Girl Is Maid of Cotton

Miss Patricia Anne Cowden of Raleigh, newly chosen 1956 "Maid of Cotton", was the guest of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York and a special committee of board members and executives of the City's leading cotton textile firms on Thursday, January 19, at 40 Worth Street. A reception in the Association rooms, followed by luncheon at the Arkwright Club of the City of New York. Miss Cowden was named president for a day and was presented with a replica of the Association's "great gavel".

Miss Cowden won the 18th annual Maid of Cotton contest at Memphis, Tenn., December 28 and is the seventh Maid of Cotton to be honored by the New York textile merchant group. She is now in New York preparing for the nation-wide and international Maid of Cotton tour sponsored by the National Cotton Council in cooperation with the cotton exchanges of Memphis, New Orleans and New York and the Memphis Cotton Carnival Association.

Last Fall, Marion W. Heiss, Cone Mills vice president, was the Pat Cowden Day speaker at Clayton. At that time, Miss Cowden was a nominee for the national title of Maid of Cotton.

Little Talks With Big Thoughts

And so they had a Church.

When the morning came after the disastrous flood of August 18th, the waters had receded but left behind the stench of mud and refuse, the rubble of rocks, trees, housetops, garages and boulders.

There stood the little church—windows and walls broken, filled with mud and filth; the new parking lot and lawns completely torn up and covered with rocks. On one side the entrance and steps remained untouched. As the church was the only available public building, quickly the workers boarded up the side and turned it into an emergency station for food, water, clothing and information.

Then, as the shock of the disaster began to wear off, the people rallied. From all around they came—the men to dig out the mud; to repair the foundation; to bulldoze the walks and drives—the women to clean and help in numerous ways. Denominations were forgotten; religions were one. All helped in some way. Those who could not help physically took up collections.

Sunday, the Church bells rang for the first time. Cars came from miles around; the congregation swelled to overflowing. Some came out of curiosity; more to contribute to the offering; but many more to thank God for their deliverance and to pray for those who were lost.

Yes, The little Church became a symbol to all people of thankfulness and faith.

A boy was boasting to his little brother that he could give him a head start and still beat him in any race.

The younger boy thought for a moment.

"Okay," he said, "it's a deal. We'll slide down the banister."

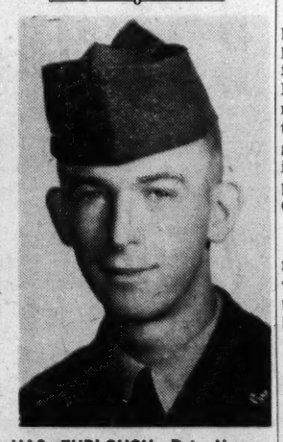
Funeral Today For Veteran Employee

Funeral will be held at 4 p.m. today for Henry C. Nance, 77, 1408 18th Street who died Tuesday afternoon at Piedmont Memorial Hospital. Mr. Nance who last Fall was honored for completing 50 years of continuous service with Cone Mills, had been ill for six weeks. He was employed in the Beaming Department of White Oak Plant.

The service will be held at Forbis and Murray Chapel, conducted by the Rev. A. P. Dickson, pastor of Buffalo Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. G. E. White, pastor of Carraway Memorial Methodist Church. Burial will be in Buffalo Presbyterian Church Cemetery.

A native of Catawba County, Mr. Nance had lived here for 51 years. He was a member of Buffalo Presbyterian Church and the Junior Order.

Survivors include his wife, the former Hattie Lewey; four sons, Clarence Nance, Carl Nance, Leo Nance and Lee Nance, all of Greensboro; one daughter, Mrs. Harvey Blue of Greensboro; two brothers, J. F. Nance of Greensboro and R. A. Nance of Danville, Va.; five sisters, Mrs. W. L. Glover and Mrs. O. S. McSwain, both of Gastonia, Mrs. E. C. Poole of Greensboro and Mrs. C. J. Jamison and Mrs. Susie Kiser, both of Charlotte; three stepsons, H. L. Lewey, H. M. Lewey and J. A. Lewey, all of Greensboro; four stepdaughters, Mrs. O. C. Ozment, Mrs. J. W. Bailey and Mrs. R. L. Foust, all of Greensboro, and Mrs. C. R. Brimilow of San Bernadin, Cal.; 21 grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.



HAS FURLOUGH—Pvt. Homer N. Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Simpson, Sr., 1306 Spry Street, recently spent a 14-day furlough with his parents after completing eight weeks of basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C. He is now stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas.

YWA Presents Bible To Vearle Whittington

Y.W.A.'s of Sixteenth Street Baptist Church presented Miss Vearle Whittington, a Y.W.A. member, who is to be married with a white Bible last Monday night.

This was a candlelight service with each Y.W.A. girl holding a white candle tied with a green ribbon. These are Y.W.A. colors.

The president, Peggy Holmes, Mrs. Ernest Holt, Y.W.A. leader, and Ernest Holt, educational director had a part in the presentation ceremony. The service was concluded with prayer by Vearle Whittington and Ernest Holt.

Woman's Society Hears New Year's Church Program

Woman's Society of Christian Service of Carraway Memorial Methodist Church held its regular monthly meeting at the church Monday night, January 9. Mrs. Frank Starling, president presided.

A very interesting program was given. The topic "New Faces for 1956." Those who took part were Mrs. Watson Tucker, Mrs. Steven Leonard, Mrs. Hazel Owens, Mrs. John Paschal and Mrs. Iris Starling.

After the business the meeting came to a close and was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Frank Starling. The next meeting will be the second Monday night in February.

Spray YMCA Defeats White Oak Acorns

Last Saturday night, January 7 Spray Y defeated the White Oak Acorns by a score of 81 to 80 in one of the most thrilling ball games ever staged on the local court. The visitors held a commanding lead at halftime with the score being 27 to 41, but the Acorns made a last quarter comeback to narrow the score to the one point margin.

Archie Wheeler (31) and Frank Smith (14) led the local team in scoring.

Other team scoring was: Al Smith 8; John Smith 11; Cleo Pegram 10; "Bo" Whitt 0; Jimmy Wheeler 6.

Tomorrow night the team will travel to Burlington to play Burlington YMCA.

Women's Group Leads In Mission Gifts

The members of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church lead the Church in giving approximately $1011 to the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering for Foreign Missions.

The 17 circles and Auxiliary Groups set for themselves a goal of $700 in gifts, above their tithes and offerings to the regular church budget, but they exceeded their goal by giving approximately $850. Other member's gifts increased the total to $1011.

Mrs. Rosa Lou Holmes, the WMU president was well pleased to report this 40% increase over the offering last year. It was through Mrs. Holmes' efforts that the women of the church gave money to the offering in stead of exchanging gifts at the Annual Christmas Social. Rev. William L. Bennett is the pastor of Sixteenth Street Baptist Church.

Infant and Pre-School Clinic

White Oak—Revolution—Proximity

New members present at the Infant and Pre-School Clinic on Wednesday afternoon were Kenneth Durham, Sue and Boots Durham, Alan Pinkelton, Larry and Garry Stringer.

Others present were Kathy Cooper, Ray Hunt, Kay Lewis, Billy Wyrick, Deborah Baynes and Cynthia Towe.

Nurses gave nine immunizations and three vaccinations.

There are only a few things heavier than lead, one of these being a guilty conscience.

Human Faults Not Machines Cause Most Injuries Here

Bruises and bumps—and sometimes worse—result when you or I walk across an alley or through a doorway without stopping to look. Our picture shows Fred Leonard, assistant overseer in the Proximity Spinning Room, about to get an unexpected "boost" or perhaps a free ride on Baxter Patterson's roving box.

Very few injuries are caused by mechanical conditions not presently subject to our control, but they are very few. A good 94% of our injuries at Cone Mills are caused by such human faults as this picture demonstrates.

To prevent painful or crippling injuries to yourself and your friends, and to improve your department's safety record, pay attention to the little things; those simple every-minute safety precautions like pausing to look for trucks, getting into the right position to lift or reach, and using a knife properly (if you must use one).

Local Church Plans Stewardship Revival

The Sixteenth Street Baptist Church will conduct a Stewardship Revival each night at 7:00 p.m. from January 16 to January 20. There will be classes for each age group and a nursery for the babies.

The adults will be taught from the book, Found Faithful, by the pastor, William L. Bennett. Miss Cleo Creed, educational director of College Park Baptist Church, will teach the young people the book, Good Stewards. Ernest Holt will teach the Intermediates, and Polly Burke will teach the Juniors. Ruby Elder will lead the Primary group, Mrs. T. W. Michael will lead the Beginners and Betty Hill will be in charge of the Nursery.

There will be two class periods each night, with an inspirational period conducted by the pastor between the class periods.

The pastor will conduct a morning session by teaching the adults. This period is held by request of the Second Shift workers. Everyone from any of the Churches in the community is invited to attend these stewardship sessions.

Don't worry if Washington takes the shirt off your back—they've got a bureau of some kind to keep it in.

16th Street YWA's Hold Regular Meeting

Y.W.A.'s of Sixteenth Street Baptist Church had their regular meeting last Monday night, January 9 in the Educational Building of the church. Peggy Holmes presided.

Vearle Whittington discussed community mission for the month. Program chairman, Sue Holmes, introduced the program and tithing. Mrs. Ernest Holt lead the opening prayer. Sue Holmes and Vearle Whittington read scripture.

Those taking part on the program were Judith Kendrick, Martha Harris, Vearle Whittington, Pat Wheeler and Sue Holmes. Peggy Holmes lead the closing prayer and also served refreshments after the program.

SCOUT PARTY—Girl Scout Troop No. 1, sponsored by Newlyn Street Methodist Church, entertained at their annual Christmas party at Cone Recreational Center, White Oak, on December 17. Must Face The Quality Requirements

As we have repeatedly stated in this column, the quality requirements of the mills' customers have radically changed during the past few years. These most exacting requirements are in reality brought about by the demands of the ultimate consumer. There is little doubt, however, that the extreme competitive conditions that exist in the textile industry make it possible for the buyer to demand and get just about what he wants.

When management insists that the workers in the plants produce quality products it is doing so for the ultimate benefit of every worker in the plant.

In this day and time no mill can fare well unless first quality production comes from the plant. This means that every person contributing to the manufacture of cloth must do his or her part right so as to avoid developments which will cause flaws in finished cloth.

Slubs, dirty spots, oil spots, broken picks, mispicks, and reediness are some of the outstanding causes of inferior cloth. In order to prevent these imperfections, management, supervisors, and the employees must first know what causes them and take such action as is necessary to prevent them.

Uneven yarns and bad finishes are also prominent causes of unsatisfactory cloth, and, as in the case of other causes of imperfections in cloth, all parties involved have a responsibility to find the causes and correct them.

Even though the textile industry does not rate with the major industries when it comes to good profits, present conditions have forced the industry into a state whereby the mills must measure up fully to high quality demands as well as low costs and top efficiency in order to have full work schedules—in other words, the textile industry has just about reached the stage where cloth must be practically perfect to be acceptable by the buyers. Cooperative work is absolutely essential in order for this to be accomplished.

All of us must recognize this fact and not be critical as the necessary steps are taken to produce top quality cloth as that is a must today. We must face the quality facts.

The Crusades brought candied fruits, flowers and fruit sherberts to Europe in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, along with milk, mirrors, perfume, and spices.

DOGS
by Forbey Manning

ADVICE TO DOG OWNERS

If your dog is one of those creatures that loves every one in town except the postman, you will be interested in the explanation given in a pamphlet I picked up recently in my veterinarian's waiting room.

Prepared as a service to the vets, the booklet is called, "Correcting Your Dog's Bad Habits" and is one of a series of five on various aspects of dog care and training. The other booklets in the same series are entitled "The Care and Training of Puppies", "Your Dog's Care and Breeding", "Your Dog's Obedience Training", and "Keeping Your Dog Healthy". All are authoritative and well written.

The author says that it is just that the postman's silhouette looks strange to your dog. "A dog's eyes can't distinguish details unless they are very close—although they can spot a moving object at a greater distance than humans can. Therefore, many dogs become excited at seeing an unusual silhouette caused by a pack on a man's back or a uniform."

The postman, poor man, usually has both and is the most frequent victim."

The effective cure is the obvious one. Make it a point to get the dog and the man together so they can become friends. After a few meetings the dog will associate the strange shape with someone he knows.

Other suggestions in the same booklet include cures for car chasing, barking, chewing and jumping up, but the author points out that the best way to prevent bad habits is to teach good ones.

"No dog will jump on you if he learned in puppyhood that he would be petted only when he was sitting down. And no dog will chase cars if he is trained to walk at heel. When he does wrong, it is usually just because he learned the bad habits before he knew it was bad.

Red Cross Offers Community Services

The story of the American Red Cross from its very beginning is based on volunteers who freely give their time to make their communities safer, more healthful, and happier places in which to live.

Red Cross volunteers by the million come from every walk of life, expressing the great human impulse to help those in need. Their continued and dedicated participation enables the organization to fulfill the congressional Charter obligations and makes Red Cross services to the community available whenever and wherever they are needed.

Volunteers serve as officers, committee members, and consultants at national, area, and chapter offices; as instructers of Red Cross training courses in health and safety; as Junior Red Cross teacher-sponsors; as members of first aid units; as blood donor recruiters; as speakers and fund campaign workers; and in numerous other essential capacities.

There are additional thousands of trained volunteers in the Arts and Skills, Canteen, Entertainment and Supply, Gray Lady, Motor, Production, Social Welfare Aids, Staff Aide, and Volunteer Nurse's Aide Services. Volunteers in these Services alone have given an average iecs alone have given an average of 50 million hours of community service each year since 1917. At present a monthly average of more than 100,000 of these Red Cross volunteers are providing various services at hospitals, military installations, civilian hospitals, mental institutions, and more than 3,900 other community agencies, including homes for children, the aged, and the handicapped.

The Cone Women's League, after a four weeks' holiday rest, resumed play last Friday night. The two top teams, Benlee's and Summit Center Esso, continued their winning streak; Benlee's taking three from Edmond's Drug, and Summit Esso winning three from Kool Springs Trailer Park. Next week will feature a battle royal between these two top teams.

Top bowler for Benlee's was Ila Roberts, who bowled a 283 set, with a 108 high game. B. Riddle also bowled a 108 game, and had second high set, 277. For Edmond's Drug, Minnie Wood's 261 set was high. Doodie Wood bowled high game, 93.

Betty Wilson's 284 set was high for Summit Center Esso, with games of 96, 94, and 94. Tied for second high sets were Ellen Fisher and Virginia Gaylord, with 268's.

For Kool Springs Trailer Park, Jean Gregory was high with a 283 set, and 101 game.

AMERICA By 1975

In America by 1975, each farm workman will be producing food and fibre to care for 21 people in contrast to the 7 persons he "covered" in 1900; the nine in 1920 and the fifteen earlier in the current decade.

The farm population will probably drop an additional ten per cent by 1975. Improved land use will set the pace in building greater production, especially since there is a gap between the projected increase of 33 per cent in productivity per acre and the required 40 per cent in total output needed.

Once more we find evidence of the change of America from an agricultural to an industrial economy—BUT—with special emphasis on a stronger, more efficent and productive agriculture than ever!

The name of the clever Oriental who first thought of boiling up a bit of ginger root in sugar cane juice is lost in the mists of history. However, his discovery ranks with that of cheesemaking in the romance of culinary accomplishments, and mankind has been busily engaged in preserving ever since.

Mrs. James Stroud, organist, and Miss Sylvia Cranford, vocalist, provided music.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Moore wore a navy suit with navy and white accessories, and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Frick, mother of the bridegroom, chose a light blue suit with pink and black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

After the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home.

The bride is a senior at Boyden High School. The bridegroom is stationed with the 25th Tropic Lightning Division at Hawaii. The bride will make her home with her parents until her husband is discharged in November of 1956.

The Bible Speaks To Your Need

By Rev. W. L. Bennett, Pastor
Sixteenth St. Baptist Church

The dearest word known to man is the word "home." Yet, there is but one type of home worthy of the name, and that is the Christian home.

God, who instituted marriage and the family, intended that the home should be a blessing and a joy, a center of worship and godly instruction, and the "chief school of human virtues."

The nearest we will ever come to heaven on this earth will be in the discovery of a life of deepening love in a happy home, and our nearest experience of hell will be found in being chained for life to the wrong person, where two lives irritate, thwart and defraud one another.

Only a Christian home can fulfill the high purposes of God and serve man's best interest. What are the basic elements in a Christian home?

In the first place, a Christian home must be built on the firm foundation of a Christian marriage.

Each time a man and a woman stand at the marriage altar and say the sacred vows, a home is begun. The kind of home begun depends chiefly on the couple's relationship to Jesus Christ. If both are Christians, they can begin building a home on Christian principles. If they are not, a Christian home is an impossibility.

Also, if one is a Christian and the other an unbeliever, a Christian home is not possible. A Christian and a non-Christian are bound to have different views of marriage. The approach of the first will be colored by his fidelity to Christ; the other will lack this deep spiritual reverence.

The advice of Paul is timely when he commands, "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers. . . . What part hath he that believeth with an infidel?" (2 Cor. 6:14-15.)

In other words, can Christ and Satan be Lord in the same house? Can a believer be mated with an infidel, or righteousness be mated with unrighteousness? Can you mix heaven and hell and still make the home happy? No, a thousand times no.

Make sure of one thing: If you marry the devil's son, you will have trouble with your father-in-law, the devil.

Health For All

Bears Do It

Have you ever been tempted to imitate the bear when the weather gets nasty? Of course, we all have. And it isn't only bad weather that tempts us to hibernate. Unpleasant situations call up the same response.

Doctors have discovered that many sick people, especially those suffering from a prolonged or chronic illness such as tuberculosis, tend to hibernate. Psychologically, they find a hole and crawl into it, shutting out the world as much as possible.

It's not surprising, of course. Suppose your doctor were to tell you that you had TB. Your first reactions might well be shock, helplessness, a feeling of being unable to cope with the problem. People vary greatly in their ability to face the changes that TB brings to their lives. The illness often has far-reaching disruptive effects in family life and personal plans. Modern treatment, good as it is, has not completely removed the fear of death or permanent disability.

The treatment of disease would be simpler, doctors tell us, if only reasonable people became ill, or if people remained reasonable after becoming ill. But they don't. Illness itself is unreasonable. Psychological disorder almost always goes along with physical disorder. A sick person is not the same person he was when well and can't be expected to react in the same way.

And so the TB patient may try to winterize himself, protect himself from feeling too much by shutting out or minimizing external demands on his emotions. The degree of withdrawal will depend on the particular patient's personality. Where one may simply refuse to be interested in the fact that Junior is flunking geometry, another may regress to a childlike disinterest in anything but his own physical comfort.

Deciding how far a TB patient should be allowed to regress might well require as much medical judgment as deciding what medicines to give him. The doctor has to take into account the individual's personality and emotional needs. What the patient says and how he behaves are symptoms which the doctor must watch as closely as he watches the fever chart.

Abraham Lincoln was once taken to task by an associate for his attitude toward his enemies: "Why do you try to make friends of them? You should try to destroy them."

Lincoln repl'd gently: "Am I not destroying my enemies when I make them my friends?"

sociates and the Arkwright Club. He served in the U. S. Army during World War I.

Mr. Ruby started his employment with Cone in 1936 as an office boy and worked in the Flannelette Detail Department until he entered the U. S. Army Signal Corp. during World War II. He served in the European, North African and Sicilian Campaigns, and was awarded the Silver Star for heroism in combat at Bizerte, Tunisia. Mr. Ruby rejoined Cone in 1945 in the Credit Department. He holds a Fellow's Certificate from the National Institute of Credit and is a member of the Textile Credit Associates and the New York Credit and Financial Management Association.

Mr. Carr joined Cone Mills as a Credit Clerk in 1947 after serving in the U. S. Air Force during World War II. He attended Manhattan College and the National Institute of Credit, where he received a Fellow's Certificate. Mr. Carr is also a member of the Textile Credit Associates and the New York Credit and Financial Management Association.
